Studying in the Land of the Future

Baden-Württemberg’s universities can hold their heads high: in the whole of Germany, no other region offers such a wide choice of universities, some of them world leaders. The state offers all kinds of education establishments to meet the professional development needs of students. And it has even invented a new kind of university – that’s typical of Baden-Württemberg.

Baden-Württemberg offers the best possible prospects for studying and working – with the largest density of institutions of higher-education and widest range of educational establishments in the whole of Germany. They are all first-class institutions. Four of Germany’s eleven Excellence Universities can be found in Baden-Württemberg. In addition to these traditional research universities, there are also universities of applied sciences, the Baden-Württemberg Cooperative State University, universities of education, universities of arts and music and private universities.
They all offer top-quality teaching, excellent facilities and a wide range of personalised services, such as Welcome Centers and Career Services. Whether you want to study archaeology or zoology, in Baden-Württemberg you’re in the right place and will receive a warm welcome.
